FLOWCHART FOR RESOLVING ISSUES RELATED TO ACADEMIC MISCONDUCT

START ASSIGNMENTS EARLY. The research and writing process takes time. Make careful choices when deciding on a topic. Pick one that interests you. Allow plenty of time to visit the library, gather materials, read and take notes. If you find that you are in a bind, talk to your professor. Remember, the #1 reason for academic misconduct is running out of time to complete the project.

TAKE GOOD NOTES. Identify in your notes which words are copied directly from a source using quotation marks, highlighting, etc. It’s also a good idea to keep a working bibliography and a research log of search terms, databases, call numbers and/or URLs so referencing materials is quick and easy.

CITE YOUR SOURCES so that authors are given appropriate credit. Direct quotes, paraphrased passages, ideas, or unfamiliar facts/information must be cited.

TALK TO A LIBRARIAN in person or through the Ask-a-Librarian link on the WSU library home page (www.lib.wayne.edu).

Make an appointment with the WSU WRITING CENTER (www.english.wayne.edu/writing/). It can help you organize your materials, identify grammatical errors and appropriately cite resources.

The ACADEMIC SUCCESS CENTER offers a variety of workshops on note-taking, effective reading and writing strategies, etc. Tutors help you organize and cite material appropriately. Visit their Web site at www.success.wayne.edu

DEFINING ACADEMIC MISCONDUCT

Academic misconduct as defined by the Dean of Students Office is any activity that tends to compromise the academic integrity of the institution or subvert the education process. All forms of academic misconduct are prohibited at Wayne State University, as outlined in the Student Code of Conduct.

Students are expected to be honest and forthright in their academic studies. Students who commit or assist in committing acts of misconduct are subject to downgrading and/or additional sanctions as described in the Student Code of Conduct. Faculty and students are responsible for knowing the different forms of academic misconduct as well as for being aware of the Student Code of Conduct.

CHEATING: Intentionally using or attempting to use, or intentionally providing or attempting to provide, unauthorized materials, information or assistance in any academic exercise.

Ex: Copying from another student’s test paper
Allowing another student to copy from your test
Using unauthorized material during an exam

PLAGIARISM: To take and use another’s words or ideas as one’s own.

Ex: Failure to use appropriate referencing when using words or ideas of other persons
Altering the language, paraphrasing, omitting, rearranging or forming new combinations of words in an attempt to make the thoughts of another appear to be your own
Submitting a term paper for a current class that has been submitted in a past class without appropriate permission

FABRICATION: The intentional and unauthorized falsification or invention of any information or citation.

Ex: Citation not taken from source indicated
Listing sources not used in bibliography

OTHER: Selling, buying or stealing all or part of a test or term paper, unauthorized use of resources, enlisting the assistance of a substitute when taking exams, destroying or sabotaging another’s work, threatening or exploiting students or instructors, or any other violation of course rules as contained in the course syllabus or other written information.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Q: What happens when a faculty member suspects that a student has committed a dishonest act?
A: When a faculty member has reason to suspect that academic misconduct has occurred, he/she may adjust the grade downward for the test, paper or other course-related activity in question, or for the entire course. In such instances, the faculty member shall notify the student of the downgrading and the reason(s) for it, either orally or in writing as described in Section 10.1 of the Student Code of Conduct.

Q: Can the student appeal the downgrading decision by the faculty?
A: YES. The student can appeal the action by filing a statement in writing with the department or unit head within ten calendar days of the oral notice or postmarked written notice. NOTE: If the department head is the faculty, the appeal is to the dean. If the dean is the faculty, the appeal is to the provost.

Q: What are my rights if academic misconduct charges are filed under the Student Code of Conduct?
A: You have the right to speak on your behalf, present evidence on your behalf, and question opposing witnesses.
You have the right to bring an advisor or attorney to a formal hearing or to an informal disciplinary conference. However, the role of the advisor or attorney is solely to counsel and not to participate actively.
You have the right to be notified in writing of the charges and the judicial procedure.
You have the right not to testify against yourself.
You have the right to select an informal disciplinary conference with the dean instead of a formal hearing if the dean decides the case is serious enough for a hearing.
You have the right to appeal the panel’s decision.
You have the right to know the nature and the source of the evidence to be used against you.
You have the right to bring an advisor or attorney is solely to counsel and not to participate actively.
